ISO 20121 certification: for more responsible and inclusive events
With a view to improving our environmental and social performance, we are engaged to an CSR approach with ISO 20121 certification. This engagement is embodied in the day-to-day actions conducted by our teams as part of a continuous improvement process. This international standard provides a framework for the implementing of "responsible management system" applied to the events activity.

HQE™ certification
HQE™ certification is a French approach relating to construction that aims to limit environmental impact in the short and long term, while enabling a building design that is fit for purpose for the user and environmentally friendly.

LEED® NC label
The LEED® NC label is the most established label at the international level. It picks up on the HQE objectives for buildings and extends them to the immediate environment of the project: reduction in light pollution, alternatives to vehicle use, water-efficient landscaping, waste management, recycling of materials, etc.
